

WORDS of the WHEEL

Experience the richness of Romany writing in the beautiful surrounds of the Museum of East Anglian Life

Come to the Museum of East Anglian Life this October for WORDS OF THE WHEEL, an event exploring Romany history and life through the rich tapestry of contemporary Romany writing.

This is an exciting chance to hear award-winning poet David Morley read selections from his celebrated work alongside Romany dramatist and BBC Imison Award nominee Dan Allum. Writer and poet Damian Le Bas will read excerpts from his new poetry, and Thomas Acton, Professor Emeritus of Romani Studies at the University of Greenwich, will give a personal perspective on Romany literature.

There will be opportunities for conversation with the writers and books will be on sale.

11:30 am ~ 3:30 pm, Saturday 13th October.

To register for the event, email wordsofthewheel2012@gmail.com

Entry includes full admission to the Museum and exhibitions.

Adults £6.90 – concessions £5.90 – children £3.90

The Museum of East Anglian Life is in Iliffe Way, opposite the ASDA supermarket in the centre of Stowmarket.

Sat nav Postcode is IP14 1DE. The Museum is signposted from the main A14 trunk road and the B1115 to Great Finborough. The railway station is a 10 minute walk and the bus stop 5 minutes, making us easy to access with public transport, which we encourage through our Green MEAL scheme.

For more information about the Museum of East Anglian Life visit the Museum website: eastanglianlife.org.uk

LOTTERY FUNDED

Supported using public funding by

ARTS COUNCIL
ENGLAND